Chelmsford has been selected to participate in the Mass Save Community First Partnership, sponsored locally by National Grid, to provide energy efficiency solutions that reduce energy consumption and increase the comfort of homes and buildings in our community. Our new Energy Advocate, Matt Wilkins, is available to help residents take full advantage of these energy-efficiency benefits. You can contact him for assistance at (978) 226-8073.

Discounted Electricity Rates Available for Heat Pump Owners

Beginning November 1, National Grid is discounting electric rates for homes with heat pumps. If you received a heat pump rebate from National Grid through Mass Save, you will be automatically enrolled in the heat pump rate after November 1. If you did not receive a Mass Save rebate but have a heat pump system in your home, you will need to verify your heat pump installation. National Grid will share more details about the verification process soon. Details on how to apply for the special heat pump electric rate will be posted at HomeWorksEnergy.com/Chelmsford when they become available.

Thinking about switching to heat pumps?

Now is a great time to take advantage of rebates up to $16,000 and interest-free financing through the Mass Save HEAT Loan. You can find out what incentives you qualify for during your No-Cost Home Energy Assessment with HomeWorks Energy.

Chelmsford is also offering free heat pump consulting through the nonprofit, HeatSmart Alliance (HSA). Request the HSA heat coaching service at https://heatsmartalliance.org/homeowners/request-coach/

The Chelmsford Clean Energy and Sustainability Committee advises residents to obtain multiple bids when selecting a heat pump provider.

Join your neighbors in lowering energy use and creating a more resilient Chelmsford. Together, we can build a more sustainable community while elevating the comfort and efficiency of our homes.

Sincerely,

Christine Clancy
